To The Graduate Admissions Committee:

I am writing to strongly recommend Anagha Athreyas for admission to your Master's in Finance program. I worked with Anagha during her tenure as a volunteer teacher with the Dial to Teach program from March 2021 to March 2022, where she demonstrated exceptional commitment and character.

During the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic, while managing her own undergraduate studies, Anagha volunteered to teach English to children from families supported by Thamate, a non-profit organization dedicated to rehabilitation and social justice. These families are working to break free from the historically oppressive practice of manual scavenging, and education plays a vital role in creating new opportunities for the next generation. What began as one-on-one instruction over phone calls soon grew to include three students, as her student's friends wanted to join in after overhearing Anagha's lessons.

Despite the challenges of remote learning, Anagha created an environment where her students felt supported and motivated to learn. She developed creative ways to track progress and celebrate achievements, implementing a reward system that kept the children engaged and eager to participate. Her dedication went beyond the basic requirements of the role – she provided thoughtful feedback on curriculum effectiveness and suggested improvements that benefited not just her students but the entire program.

What truly sets Anagha apart is her commitment to creating meaningful change while maintaining high standards of excellence in all her endeavors. During a period when many were struggling to adapt to remote learning, she took on this additional responsibility and excelled at it, showing remarkable resilience and organizational ability. Her students' consistent attendance and enthusiasm speak to her effectiveness as a mentor and teacher.

Based on my observations of Anagha's character, intellectual capabilities, and dedication to excellence, I am confident she would be an outstanding addition to your graduate program. She approaches challenges with analytical rigor while never losing sight of the human impact of her work. I wholeheartedly recommend her for admission to your program.

Please feel free to contact me if you require any additional information about her capabilities or contributions.

Sincerely,
Nithya Krishnamoorthy
